Fabric Design in Italy

Italy, a birthplace of ancient European civilization, is the cradle of diverse cultures which thrive in different places of the world. One of them is Urbisaglia in the Margate region, boasting not only splendid history and excellent clothing art but also the legendary TOMBOLINI family.

In 1964, TOMBOLINI was still a newly established men's tailor-made shop. Its founder, EUGENIO TOMBOLINI, drew inspiration from the oil painting of St. George in which he was dressed in uniform and riding a white horse to fight against evil beasts. After a simplified modification of this image, the brand logo came into being. Incorporating knights, evil beasts and scissors, it became a significant symbol of TOMBOLINI.

EUGENIO TOMBOLINI believed that elegant life is an art, and this belief drove him to always make all the clothes with high-quality fabrics, exquisite garment technology and unique aesthetic design. He was particularly adept at using different fabrics, from wool to long-staple cotton and from plaid to velvet, to add glamour to the garments. Such fabric versatility was combined into suits, shirts, and even ties to inject more possibilities into each piece of clothing and thus expressed the fine Italian lifestyle while providing customers with a first-class dressing experience. TOMBOLINI's classic elegance and comfort has gained a reputation as "Godfather of Accessible Luxury".

On the tide of the times, TOMBOLINI has constantly been pursuing change and innovation while inheriting the essence of Italian craftsmanship. It integrates Australian ultra-slim merino wool fiber and ultra-fine silk with special textile technology to make the fabric thin, soft and breathable. The clothes are not only figure flattering but also lighter and more comfortable. TOMBOLINI is also committed to empowering fabrics by virtue of intelligent technology, imparting vitality into classics to elevate the Italian craft to a new height.

To this day, TOMBOLINI has never stopped pursuing quality. It continues to break away from convention and monotony to achieve dressing moments of elegance and nobility in the multi-scene lives of urban men.

2026 SPRING/SUMMER

The 26SS men's collection takes "Cruise to Monaco" as its theme, drawing inspiration from a luxurious Mediterranean yacht journey bound for Monaco.

It captures the sunshine, sea breeze, and effortless elegance of Southern France, creating sophisticated vacation looks that are both appropriate and relaxed based on the TPO (Time, Place, Occasion) concept.

The color palette revolves around natural, soft tones such as navy blue, sesame beige, and Mediterranean green, accented by morning mist green and silver pink for vivid highlights.

This creates a modern yet refined visual impression, expressing an attitude of "restrained luxury" and leisurely elegance.

The designs emphasize a balance between functional fabrics and tailored silhouettes, reinterpreting the modern vacation gentleman style with a fresh perspective.
